"I highly recommend this 'blue corn, blue door, blue sky' delight, not only as a guide for travelers, but as a book on teachers' desks, here at home and around the world. Somehow this writer takes us across centuries of cultural landscape while leaving that green chile taste on our lips and that vast blue sky in our hearts."

Marth Beckett, Interim Museum Director
Indian Pueblo Cultural Center, Albuquerque, NM

"I love the format of this book—a mini-encyclopedia mixed with great photographs of the cultural icons of New Mexico. What a great way to introduce guests to beauty and allure of this place, as well as serve as a resource for those of us who have lived in and loved New Mexico for many years—a fun and thought-provoking read."

Cathy L. Wright, Director
The Albuquerque Museum of Art & History

"Like a secret decoder ring for the state—Parhad's approach is a genius way of sharing New Mexico's unique culture. No guidebook (not even mine) is both so focused and so informed."

"Like an anthropologist that you can slip into your carry-on, New Mexico: A Guide for the Eyes helps you peek beneath the exotic veneer of the state's traditions, folklore, and cuisine to gain an understanding of the culture underneath. Even Land of Enchantment locals (like myself) will discover things that they never knew."

"Guides for the Eyes is the ultimate handbook to experiencing a place like a local. A visual treasure hunt of clues, this series successfully does what you wish every other travel guide would do (but doesn't)."
